Funding Cleanups

Featured Article

You know that you have to do the cleanup. DEP has issued a Directive. Or maybe a Phase 1 and Phase 2 Report indicated a problem.

The question is -- how will you pay for the cleanup. We can help you answer that question.

There are traditionally various means of funding a cleanup. Insurance may work if the property was covered by a policy that pays for environmental cleanups. Will your policy do so? Even if your carrier denies your claim, there may be hope.

We can evaluate your policy, pursue your claim, and sue the carrier if need be.

In addition, the State has numerous funding options. Some are grants (no need to repay), others are low interest loans.

NEW DEP Cleanup Program

No, its not your father's DEP. DEP's new cleanup program went into full effect this month. Many cleanups will now be supervised by licensed consultants, not the NJDEP. There are strict schedules and hefty penalties under the new program. Need a copy of the temporary regulations, contact us and we will send them to you.

Court Approves Class Action

A federal court recently gave the go ahead for a litigation against DuPont to proceed as a class action. At issue: whether a substance called PFOA polluted the drinking water for thousands of South Jersey residents. Class action certification means there will be one case, rather than thousands.

than many smaller cases.

Plaintiffs seek clean drinking water. Lieberman & Blecher is co-counsel in this case with several other distinguished firms, situated throughout the U.S.

Litigation against the responsible parties is a last option, but it is available.

You need to do a cleanup. We will help you figure out how to fund it.
